“Over the last two years, we have pursued a strategy of strengthening our balance sheet. Elimination of securities with inherent dilutive features was a key pillar of this strategy and we are pleased to have executed it successfully. Chemtrade now stands on a firmer capital foundation,” continued Mr. Bhardwaj.

“Looking forward, our financial priorities remain unchanged as we continue to optimize our capital structure, maintain financial discipline, and return capital to our unitholders,” concluded Mr. Bhardwaj.

Chemtrade will use cash on hand, or a combination of cash on hand and draws on its credit facilities, to fund the Redemption.
